PROMOTING HEALTH

Casey County Hospital sponsored its annual Health Fair on Saturday on the hospital grounds. Attendees visited a number of booths featuring health care information, equipment, products, and services. A big "draw" prior to the fair was the blood draw for screening. Judy Roy, who works in the lab at CCH, said that 1,748 people had their blood tested. ## Childhood obesity exists, but hunger looms

Backpack program needs donations

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

Children's health experts and other school officials are decrying the increasing number of school-aged children nationwide who are overweight. But few of these officials raise the cry over the number of children who don't have enough to eat. In the Casey County School District, nearly 71 percent of the student population participate in the free and reduced meals program, said Food Service Director Teresa Terry. Walnut Hill and Jones Park Elementary Schools have the highest percentage at 78 and 74 percent, respectively. Liberty Elementary has the lowest number of students in the program at 61 percent. While these students have an opportunity to eat two meals a day at school, school officials worry about how some of these kids are going to eat over the weekend. And that's where the Casey County Community Ministries' Backpack Nutrition Program comes in to help children in need of food during the weekends when they are not able to eat at school. Last year in Casey County, 115 students — at a cost of $2.50 per week — participated in the weekend program, said Jennifer Godbey, Coordinator of the East Casey County Family Resource Center. "We're expecting a lot more this year. More applications are coming in," she said. Children for the program are referred by faculty and staff at the schools. Godbey said that she has alerted all Casey County School District staff members to be on the lookout for students who would qualify for the program. Students might mention to a teacher that there won't be food in the house over the weekend or a teacher might see a student rushing the food line in the cafeteria. Other signs include extreme hunger on Monday mornings, eating every bite of food served, and loss of weight, among others. "Staff fills out the referral form and returns them to the Family Resource Center/Youth Services Directors at the schools," Godbey said. Students approved for the program — and who have parental permission — are discreetly given a backpack on

Police urge caution on Ky. 817

Motorists can expect delays during Ky. 70 closure

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

Local authorities are asking motorists to slow down and be patient when taking Ky. 817 (Connector Road) to U.S. 127. On Aug. 20, state transportation workers closed about one-half mile of East Ky. 70 from Ky. 1649 (Dry Ridge Road) to the Connector Road for curve reconstruction and utility work as a part of the Dry Ridge Hill reconstruction. Officials estimate it will be closed for three months. The closure means that anyone using Connector Road to get to and from U.S. 127 can expect delays, especially when students and school buses are headed to Casey County Middle School and Casey County High School. "We've got police out there directing traffic because there's a pretty significant traffic tie up," said Liberty Mayor Steve Sweeney, adding that sheriff's department deputies have also aided in traffic

Local attorney nominated for Circuit Judge appointment

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

A Liberty attorney's name has been submitted to Gov. Steve Beshear as one of three candidates for the Circuit Court Judge's position for the 29th Judicial District comprising Casey and Adair counties. Jerry Foster was nominated along with Casey County Commonwealth's Attorney Brian Wright and Columbia attorney Judy Vance. The position became vacant as a result of the death of Judge James G. Weddle in April. The nominations, from the Judicial Nominating Commission, means the governor has 60 days from Friday to appoint one of the three as the new judge. The appointee would then serve until the Nov. 6 general election and run to fill Judge Weddle's unexpired term, which ends in 2014. However, should the governor not act within that 60-day appointment period, then Kentucky Supreme Court Chief Justice John Minton can either name the appointee or allow the voters to decide who will be the judge in this year's general election. Speculation is rife that it's unlikely that either Beshear or Minton will appoint one of the three as the 60 day deadline comes less than two weeks before the Nov. 6 election. Wright and Vance have filed in Frankfort to be on the November ballot. Foster's name will not appear on the ballot because he didn't meet the Aug. 22 filing deadline.

'Kentucky Life' TV show host coming to Liberty Sept. 5

By Amanda Cole
Staff Writer

Downtown Liberty is about to get its five minutes of fame. Kentucky Life host Dave Shuffett will be in town Wednesday, Sept. 5, to film for a five-and-a-half minute segment on Downtown Liberty for an episode scheduled to air Oct. 20. "We are honored to have him come to Liberty," said Mayor Steve Sweeney. "It's a great program." Kentucky Life, KET's award-winning series, celebrates the people and places of the Commonwealth.

"Usually part of the show is of Dave walking around a downtown city, talking about a little bit of the history, interviewing local officials, and bouncing into businesses and talking with owners," said Blaine Staat, director of Liberty-Casey County Chamber of Commerce. "It brings attention to downtown areas of different cities of Kentucky and it's our turn." Dave will arrive with two others around 10 a.m., said Noel Depp, associate producer. "It'll be Dave, myself, and John Schroering," Depp said. Filming will focus on landmarks in Liberty. "Places where people will look at it and say, 'Oh, that's Liberty', or 'That's my hometown,'" she said. Depp suggests people be "out and about." "We try to get the b-roll shots around lunchtime," she said. "That's when downtowns are more active." They'll shoot a lot of outdoor footage of people walking around, businesses and the main areas of town. Sweeney and Staat already have a few places they want to suggest. "I'll point out a lot of things — the beauty of Casey County, Liberty Island, the Ag/Expo Center, Veterans Park, and all of the local homegrown industry we have in Casey County and what a tremendous asset that is," Sweeney said. "Also, the courthouse is quite historic." The visit is happening at a great time for the city, Staat said. "There's a lot of positive energy in Liberty right now," he said. "There's the college, our theater being renovated and new businesses. There's plenty for them to see, film and talk about." Business owners and residents are encouraged to prep for the visit. "It's a great opportunity to have the town cleaned up, streets clean, storefronts clean," Staat said. Everyone should also be ready to say a few things about the city.

Thanks, Casey County Hospital

With Kentucky in the top 10 in the nation of so many health problems such as obesity, diabetes, cancer, and heart disease, these problems are compounded because many people don't have health insurance and cannot afford to be proactive in getting regular checkups.

That's why we want to give a tip-of-the-hat to Casey County Hospital for sponsoring the recent Health Fair in which 1,748 local residents got more than $300 of blood work done for $12 — a real bargain in terms of today's health care screening costs.

In addition, more screening and professional advice were available at Saturday's Health Fair at CCH.

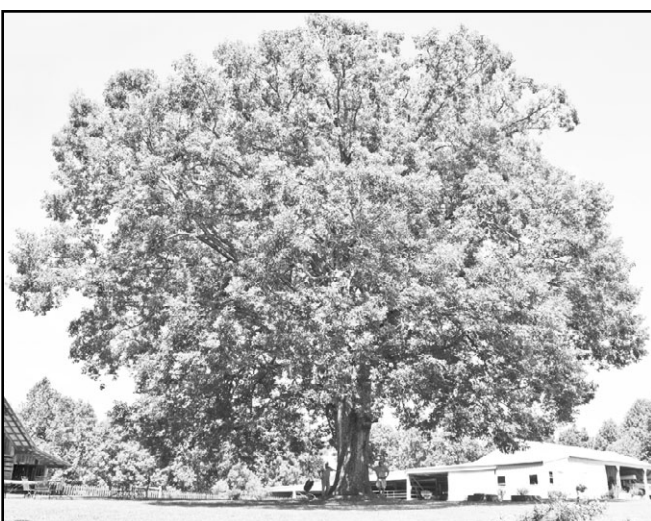

Booths featuring medical equipment and other services allowed attendees to get information on a wide variety of health subjects.

And while we're on the subject of CCH, it was good news to hear this week that the forensic audit done at Westlake Regional Hospital in Columbia cleared former CEO Rex "Rusty" Tungate of any fraud or financial misuse of funds.

Tungate, who was CEO of WRH until February 2011, has led CCH hospital to where it's approaching the $6 million mark in the black.

That is remarkable given the bleak financial history that plagued CCH before Tungate took the helm as CEO in 1996.

Here's looking to a bright future for all Casey Countians as our hospital expands and grows.

Tree saga continues

I may have created a name for myself that I did not intend. After asking for people to call or email me about large trees in the county in my last column, I received about 10 phone calls and an email. Quite a few of the callers asked for me by name but some asked something along the lines of, "Are you the woman who likes to look at big trees?"

Fellow staff writer Larry Rowell joked that I had discovered my Native American name, "woman who likes trees." It is true that I like trees, and in fact my maiden name is Hensley, which is derived from two Old English words that translates to "a clearing in the woods."

After searching on the internet, I discovered that the Hensley crest was a beech tree, so you could say it's in my blood to be fond of trees.

of Americans who struggle with weight issues, I'm always looking for the magic bullet, some combination of things that will work together to not only lose weight, but keep it off.

And now comes the newest diet to hit the shelves, the no-wheat regime that basically calls for eliminating wheat from the diet. No bread, cookies, crackers, pie, cake, most cold cereals, anything containing wheat. Water to drink and no sodas. not even diet.

And wheat is also in other products such as salad dressings.

I read the book — "Lose the Wheat, Lose the Belly" — by Dr. William Davis, a practicing cardiologist in Milwaukee.

Davis is of the opinion that after treating thousands of patients with heart-related illnesses, including diabetes, that America is fat because of wheat products.

Davis said that the gluten in the wheat has been genetically re-engineered to make us want more. It also causes spikes in blood sugar, leading to diabetes.

I encourage you to read the book to get a more accurate picture of what he states about wheat products.

Anyway, the diet calls for eggs, cheese, lean meats, vegetables, and certain fruits — such as berries — that don't cause a dramatic swing in blood sugars.

I've been following this for three weeks and have eaten wheat once during that time. I really don't miss it and after seeing my blood test results from last week's health fair at Casey County Hospital, I'm encouraged.

My fasting blood sugar was 89, total cholesterol was 124 and triglycerides were 113. Most all the other numbers, that I didn't understand, were in the normal ranges.

However, my HDL cholesterol was low but exercise will bring that up.

While I may not attribute the good results to just three weeks on the no-wheat diet, I know that it has helped.

But despite the blood test numbers, I'm still overweight and have a significant amount of weight to lose.

I know that physical activity has to be a part of a healthy lifestyle.

And that's probably one of the most difficult parts of getting or staying healthy.

I do like what the late Neil Armstrong said: "God only gave me a finite number of heartbeats and I'm not going to waste any of them exercising."

After all, the man did live to be 82 years of age.

The no-wheat thing might be the latest diet fad and soon, it will no longer be the "craze."

But for now, let's stay the course and see what happens.

I'm well on my way and maybe, just maybe, this no-wheat thing will be the real deal.

What are you saying?

Joberta
WELLS
Columnist

if I did).

There is a commercial on TV right now where the star says, "You sung it." Good grief, it should be sang, not sung! You "have sung it" is correct, however.

My friend, Judy, gets all up in arms about one of my favorite mistakes. You frequently hear people say, "I have an ideal -- let's go to a movie." NO, NO, NO, you have an idea! Ideal is a standard of perfection; idea is a thought.

If you were a World War I soldier who went to war on a horse, you were in the cavalry, not the calvary. Calvary is a hill outside Jerusalem where Jesus was crucified. It's also a ridge outside Yosemite.

Do you know what you call a baby boy horse and a baby girl horse? A baby boy horse is a colt; a baby girl horse is a filly. I frequently hear all baby horses referred to as colts. Makes me nuts!

Escape is another word frequently mispronounced. It is not EX-cape, it's ES-cape. It's not even easy to say "excape" but many people do.

The cooking shows on TV are getting on my nerves. Chefs frequently say they are "carmelizing" something. There ain't no such word as carmel unless you're talking about a town in California. The word is caramel. Don't leave out that "a" in the middle. It's carAmel corn, carAmel apple, carAmel sauce, not carmel. That "a" is meant to be pronounced.

We all know the abbreviation "etc." That stands for "et cetera" and that is Latin for "and the rest". It's pronounced "ET cetera", not "EK cetera."

I absolutely go crazy when I see misused, misplaced, or missing apostrophes! There are even two men who go all over the country changing misused apostrophes and other errors and they wrote a book entitled "The Great Typo Hunt: Two Friends Changing the World, One Correction at a Time." I'd love to meet them.

Misty Mountain Sales on South Fork finally got rid of their misused apostrophe and I am so appreciative. It had been "Sale's", which is NOT the way to pluralize a word. An apostrophe is used to denote a possessive such as "Joe's dog." An apostrophe is used in contractions such as can't for cannot. They can be used when replacing a letter or two. Tots and Teens, an old store in Lexington, was Tots 'n' Teens. You frequently see babies and kittens referred to as "li'l things" or incorrectly as "lil' things." I could go on and on and on but I won't. I'm sure you appreciate that!

Caudill is new nutrition education assistant

By Amanda Cole
Staff Writer

A new staff member at the local county extension office is looking forward to helping residents make healthier decisions concerning food and nutrition.

CAUDILL

Lisa Caudill of Science Hill started as the Food Stamp Nutrition Education Program (FS-NEP) Assistant on Monday at the Casey County Extension Office in Liberty. “I’m very excited for the program to start and to meet new people on this new journey,” Caudill said. “It’s an amazing program.” Caudill will be working 80 percent with adults who are food stamp eligible and 20 percent with children, doing nutritional education. Due to the high number of students in the county who receive free or reduced lunch, every adult in Casey County is eligible for the program, said Debbie Shepherd, County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences in Liberty. “Anyone in Casey County can do the program,” she said. The goal of FSNEP is to help families learn how to plan nutritious meals on a limited budget by offering classes on budgeting food dollars, healthy eating habits, how to shop to get more nutrition for your dollar, meal planning to increase variety and fruit/vegetable consumption, and food preparation and safety, Shepherd said. “It’s a wonderful program with a high success rate,” Shepherd said. FSNEP is a confidential

USDA program administered by the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service under Family & Consumer Sciences. Caudill will be enrolling families from the general public and receiving referrals from agencies in the county such as the senior citizens center, adult day care, Adanta, and the food stamp office, Shepherd said. Caudill is ready to jump into the program because it means a lot to her personally. “One reason the program means a lot to me is because I went through a divorce 16 years ago and my son and I moved into public housing. Food Stamps were the only way we were able to make it,” Caudill said. “I was so grateful. I worried about how I was going to stay within budget and buy groceries. If I can help somebody in just a little way, that means a lot to me. That’s all I need for the day.”

But the program isn’t only for people who receive Food Stamps. “Whether or not you’re on Food Stamps, it’s important to eat healthy, stay on budget and shop wise. No matter your income, that’s important,” Shepherd said. For youth nutrition education, Caudill will offer community programs and work with schools to help children develop healthier lifestyles, increase fruit and vegetable consumption and physical activity. “We’re very very excited about Lisa starting to offer this program to Casey County,” Shepherd said. Caudill is currently going through orientation and training. Classes should begin in late September or early October, Shepherd said. Caudill can be contacted at the extension office on South U.S. 127 and West Ky. 70. The telephone number is 606-787-7384.

New gardening group sprouting up in Casey County

By Amanda Cole
Staff Writer

People with a love for gardening came together recently to talk soil, marketing and vegetables. Fifty people from five counties attended The Gardener’s Group’s informative community potluck picnic on Thursday at the Casey County Extension Education building. The newly sprouted group was started by Mary Nardin of Lincoln County in collaboration with Debbie Shepherd, Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences at the Casey County Extension Office in Liberty. “The goal of the group is to promote education, fun and fellowship among gardeners of all ages to encourage the community to grow and eat healthier,” Nardin said. However, she wanted to stress that the group is not a club. “Everybody’s welcome from everywhere,” she said. “Families are welcome. Bring your children and husbands.” Tables were set up for companies and farmers to share information, sell homegrown or homemade items and promote their organization. Among those at the event were First Day Farm, Bobbett’s, MeadowBrook Orchards and Farm, Hettmansperger Greenhouse, the Lake Cumberland District Health Department and Monticello Banking Company with a hands-on kids activity. Live entertainment was provided by organic grower, lecturer, author and musician Jerome Lange. Manning said the organizers are also looking to grow the group. “We hope to sign up a whole bunch,” said Nell Manning, a founding member of the group. Both Nardin and Manning are Master Gardeners, a title attained in an educational program offered through the extension office. Nardin, who sells under Foggy Pond Farm, belongs to the Kentucky Herb Association and Nature’s Thyme.

talk about how to select, care for and plant trees and shrubs. Programs are set up through July 2013.

Friday afternoons filled with kid-friendly, vitamin fortified, non-perishable foods such as easy-open soups and canned goods such as Beanie Weenies, small boxes of dried fruit and fruit cups and fruit and granola bars. Godbey said that people are welcome to donate the items for the backpacks — Pop Tarts, fruit cups, vegetable cups, boxed milk, individual, easy-open cans of beans, Vienna sausages, fruit rollups and cereal bars. The backpack program is not self-sustaining and relies on donations from groups and individuals to keep it going. A backpack for one child costs $100 for a year. Full or partial donations are accepted and are tax deductible. According to the Rev. Homer Hecht, pastor of Liberty’s First Christian Church and Board Director of CCCM, about $3,500 has already been raised for the program which will cost more than $10,000. Donors can choose to participate in the “Adopt-A-BackPacker” program by donating $100 per child. Checks should be made payable to Casey County Community Ministries and mailed to 1922 North U.S. 127, Liberty, KY 42718.

Liberty-Casey County EDA

New business seeks $250,000 loan

A local entrepreneur and inventor has asked the Liberty-Casey County Economic Development Authority for a $250,000 loan for a start-up business. Liberty resident Stacey Beeler appeared before the Aug. 20 EDA meeting with members of her management team, including marketing strategists with extensive experience in the clothing industry. Beeler has started a new company called “SnapDolls,” which is a clothing line designed for girls ages 9 to 14 and described as “wearable collectibles.” The T-shirts work like paper dolls where the wearer can “snap on” a different design. The loan request is for $250,000 at a low or no interest rate, repayable in 10 years. The funds are to be used on product development, merchandising, working capital, Web site development, marketing, and sales efforts. Company officials said that through 2014, the company will need $525,000 that will be provided by Management ($100,000), development grants, loans, and angel investors. The business model projects the Liberty-based company to manufacture as many as 49,000 units next year with 12 local employees. Further, by 2015, SnapDolls projects that it will make 290,000 units and have 28 employees, with an annual net income of $687,000. The EDA will consider SnapDolls loan request at the next meeting, which is Aug. 31 at 12 p.m. at City Hall. The meeting is open to the public. In addition, the Board welcomed Rod Wolford, the latest EDA Board member representing a City appointment. Laura Hebrock was recently appointed by the county to sit on the EDA Board.

Casey County Hospital Board

Hospital on strong financial footing

The Casey County Hospital Board heard CEO Rusty Tungate say that the hospital is now nearing the $6 million mark in terms of profitability. In addition, Controller Rich Hendershot told board members that through May 31, the total fund balance at the hospital was $5,988,337. For the month of May, Hendershot said that the hospital had a net income of $51,747, and a year-to-date net income of $817,651. Also at the meeting, Board Chairman Lonnie Mullins paid tribute to Ralph Morgan, who was Chief Financial Office at the hospital from 1995 to July 31 of this year, when he died. Morgan became CFO in March 2005 at Jane Todd Crawford Hospital in Greensburg and he served as CFO at Westlake Regional Hospital in Columbia until February 2011.

“They could stop people on the street or walk into any business downtown,” Staat said. “Smile and welcome people from outside the county. Let people know Liberty is here and it’s a great place.” It’s also a time for residents to show their pride. “Be proud of our community,” Sweeney said. “We need to put our best foot forward and be ourselves because we have a lot to offer in downtown Liberty, so let’s just make sure they’re aware of it.” Kentucky Life will kick off its 18th season on Sept. 15. ## AROUND THE AREA

Auditors clear Tungate of wrongdoing

ADAIR COUNTY — Rex “Rusty” Tungate, former CEO of Westlake Regional Hospital in Columbia and CEO at Casey County Hospital and Jane Todd Crawford Memorial Hospital in Greensburg, has been exonerated of any fraudulent financial activity at WRH.

The WRH District Board sought the audit after Tungate and the management team left the hospital in early 2011.

A forensic audit was conducted and auditors found no evidence that money was misspent.

“During the course of our forensic accounting engagement, we searched for fraudulent disbursements by reviewing the the cash disbursements journal with management and interviewing accounting personnel and the purchasing director. We reviewed a significant number of transactions during the course of our engagement but did not identify any fraudulent disbursements. We also conducted several interviews of WRH personnel. None of the current WRH personnel indicated any direct or indirect knowledge of fraudulent disbursements,” the audit states.

Since Tungate was CEO at the three hospitals, auditors also examined any cash transactions among the hospitals.

“We specifically reviewed transactions among WRH, CCHD, and JTCMH and found them to be well documented. We also discussed intercompany transactions with WRH accounting and purchasing personnel. These employees stated that there are procedures in place to insure that each entity pays for its own expenditures and they have not been pressured to cause WRH to pay for expenditures benefiting CCHD and JTCMH,” the audit states.

Teenager injured trying to protect family

BOYLE COUNTY — A Junction City teenager was stabbed Aug. 22 while trying to defend his family from an intruder, police said.

Everett J. Worthington, 33, of Danville, was arrested on felony charges of first-degree assault and first-degree burglary.

Worthington is accused of breaking into a Phillips Lane mobile home in Junction City about 9 p.m., according to Boyle Sheriff Marty Elliott.

The teen, Darrell J. Alcorn Jr., 19, saw Worthington in the home without an invitation, and a fight broke out, Elliott said.

Alcorn recognized Worthington as the person who had been arguing with a member of his family earlier in the day, the sheriff said.

During the fight, Worthington stabbed Alcorn with a knife in his left thigh, Elliott said. The suspect then ran from the scene.

Not long after, Boyle deputies and Kentucky State Police troopers caught Worthington at a home on Alum Springs Crosspike.

If convicted, Worthington faces 10 to 20 years imprisonment for assault and an additional 10 to 20 years for burglary.

Property values decline from distressed properties

LINCOLN COUNTY — Distressed properties across Lincoln County, from mobile homes to two-story family residences, some previously valued at more than $200,000, have seen a sharp drop in value due to their dilapidated condition.

As an example, one home on Brock Road, valued at $82,000 in 2008, was worth only $23,000 three years later. Another house on Tolley Road dropped from $47,000 to $24,000 over the last four years.

The PVA office valued about $24 million worth of new property in Lincoln this year, but devalued other properties about $28 million.

Much of that $28 million was due to distressed properties which are occurring with greater frequency.

Records from the Lincoln County Property Valuation Administrator office show that in 2008, total property value in the county rose by more than $40.2 million.

From 2009 to 2011, property values appreciated about $12 million, $14 million and $7 million respectively.

However, in 2012, total property value in the county declined by more than $4 million.

Man indicted in tractor accident

MARION COUNTY — A local resident has been indicted in connection with a tractor accident while transporting individuals from the site of the Warrior Dash obstacle race held in June in Marion County.

Steven R. Baudendistel, 44, of 1190 Popes Creek Road in Lebanon was indicted in Marion Circuit Court recently for first-degree wanton endangerment (17 counts), DUI first offense (aggravator) and leaving the scene of an accident.

According to the indictment, on or about June 23, Baudendistel manifested extreme indifference to the value of human life by engaging in conduct that created a substantial risk of danger, death or serious injury to 17 other people.

Baudendistel was driving a tractor pulling a wagon on the day he was arrested. Six people were transported to Spring View Hospital with injuries following the accident, and multiple ambulances were called to the scene to transport the injured.

The accident was reported to the Lebanon Police Dispatch at 3:32 p.m. June 23, and Marion County Sheriff's Deputy Anthony Rakes responded. Rakes spoke with the caller and learned that the tractor driver had walked away from the scene and went to a residence on Popes Creek.

After Rakes located Baudendistel, he told Rakes “he was trying to be nice and give subjects a ride from the Warrior Dash to their vehicles,” the arrest report reads.

Rakes noted that Baudendistel had a strong odor of alcohol, had blood shot eyes, was unsteady on his feet and failed all field sobriety tests. Baudendistel also told Rakes that he had been driving and lost control of the tractor. As a result several subjects were thrown from the wagon, according to the arrest report.

Local man guilty of sexual battery

PULASKI COUNTY—A local businessman took a plea deal last week and was found guilty of the sexual battery of a preteen girl in Tennessee.

Robert Moore, 64, who operates Beltone franchises in Somerset, Corbin and LaFollette, Tenn., entered a no contest plea in Campbell County, Tenn., Aug. 20.

However, will not spend any time in jail. He was sentenced to five years of supervised probation. Moore is also subject to the Sexual Offender Registry requirements and can have no contact with the victim. He was also ordered to pay court costs at a minimum of $50 a month.

Moore was indicted in March on seven counts of rape and sexual battery of a minor. The seven counts of rape were dropped as part of the plea agreement.

The mother of the child agreed to the plea deal to spare her daughter from having to testify in court.

Moore still faces other legal issues.

A sealed indictment was handed down on July 11, accusing Moore of attempting to rape a 36-year-old Campbell County woman who was a patient of his. The incident allegedly happened in April.

Russell County Hospital has new manager

RUSSELL COUNTY — Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington will manage the Russell County Hospital. The RCH Hospital Board voted Aug. 21 to enter into a partnership with CBH.

Chris McQueary, chairman of the RCH Board, said that the deal is not a merger and the county will retain ownership with the RCH Board running the hospital.

CBH's role will be to offer management and other services for the hospital for a term of three years with the option to renew for a one year term at the end of that time.

Also, at the end of each 12-month term, RCH reserves the right to terminate the agreement.

Central Baptist officials said that the management partnership affords RCH an opportunity to offer more health services in addition to looking for ways to minimize costs while maintaining affordable services.

CEO Robert Ramey, with BCBH for 17 years and administrator of the Baptist Physicians Surgery Center, replaces David Rasmusen as head administrator of RCH.

During the RCH Board meeting, several hospital employees voiced concerns about losing their jobs.

McQueary said that the agreement doesn't call for jobs being lost.

Central Baptist Hospital is owned by Kentucky-based Baptist Healthcare System, a 383-bed hospital on Nicholasville Road in Lexington.

Ford guilty of murdering police husband

TAYLOR COUNTY — Tonya Ford has been found guilty of the murder of her husband, and the jury has recommended a sentence of 20 years in prison.

Formal sentencing has been set for Tuesday, Sept. 18.

The jury of four men and 10 women returned the verdict Friday morning. Deliberation ended around 8 p.m. on Thursday, and the jury was taken to a local motel before beginning deliberation again at 8:30 a.m. on Friday.

David Ford, 40, a Lebanon Police officer, was found shot to death in the head at his Graham Road home in Campbellsville on Feb. 10, 2009.

Tonya Ford called the Campbellsville/Taylor County E-911 Center and said she had arrived at the home and found that her husband had been shot.

Taylor County Coroner Terry Dabney said in 2009 that an autopsy confirmed Officer Ford's death as a homicide.

She faces as much as life in prison. The prosecution has said it will not seek the death penalty.

HOROSCOPES

August 29-September 4

CAPRICORN

December 22-January 19

Capricorn, when you love someone, it can be difficult to step aside and let this person make his or her own choices. But this is what you have to do for lessons to be learned.

TAURUS

April 20-May 20

Taurus, there are many opportunities within your reach, but you are not sure which way to go. Seek advice from Sagittarius when you get a spare moment.

GEMINI

May 21-June 21

Others can see you haven't been yourself lately, Gemini. So relax and take a break from something that's been bothering you, and you will return to being your old self. You won't be disappointed.

AQUARIUS

January 20-February 18

Your eyes are bigger than your stomach at work this week, Aquarius. Delegate some tasks so everything goes smoothly and your project is completed on time.

PISCES

February 19-March 20

Learning from your weaknesses can help you to grow stronger, Pisces. Accept a challenge that is presented this week, even if it scares you.

ARIES

March 21-April 19

You are on a roll, Aries, and now it is just a matter of maintaining the momentum for a few more days. Don't let anyone slow you down this week.

LIBRA

September 23-October 22

Libra, no one will know who you truly are unless you share a few secrets. You don't have to give everything away, but allow others in by sharing some personal information.

SCORPIO

October 23-November 21

Scorpio, though you don't shy away from challenges, you do know when to pick your battles. When something inconsequential comes up this week, let it pass.

SAGITTARIUS

November 22-December 21

Sagittarius, when a past conflict resurfaces this week, push it aside because that is ancient history. It is better to focus on the positive things that are in store for you.

VIRGO

August 23-September 22

Virgo, though you may not know where your path will lead this week, you are deeply aware that an adventure is in store. Take some time to prepare your mind and body.

LEO

July 23-August 22

Leo, don't let anyone discourage you when tackling a big project. As you have proven time and again, you simply need to establish a goal and your efforts will help you

Questions remain after reading book on identifying mushrooms

Originally published in the Dec. 13, 1962 issue of The Casey County News

Since what seems like the days of Moses we have been interested in the subject of mushrooms, and it was with considerable interest that we looked forward to a new book.

It is, "The Savory Wild Mushroom" by Margaret McKenny (Univ. of Washington Press, 1962, $3.95). Now that we have it, with all its pretty color pictures, we are right where we started from.

To begin with, we dearly love to eat mushrooms, but have always been limited to those that came out of cans. It is simply a matter of being able to identify the wild ones that are edible, compared to the ones that cause sudden death.

By Fred Burkhard
The Casey County News

This might seem a bit strange from one that can identify practically any tree or cut wood, birds, wild and tame flowers, fish, some 30 ferns, and goodness knows what other of nature's products. Mushrooms, however, leave us cold.

As far as we are concerned the lepiota naucina looks exactly like the amanita phalloides. The first is fine eating; the second is also known as the "death cap" and will get you about as quickly as arsenic.

In this case, one either knows them, or doesn't know them. One is good eating and the other a quick trip to the undertaker.

Even the pioneers knew mushrooms that were suitable to eat, calling them "dry land fish" and gathering them by the split baskets full during certain times of the year.

We stumble on a nice looking mushroom and examine it carefully for texture, and we always peel the top to see how it comes loose from the stalk.

This peeling, we are told, isn't worth a thing. Some of the most deadly mushrooms peel nicely. Our pretty new books say there is no difference between a mushroom and a toadstool. They're all mushrooms at certain stages.

We are told that the deer loves mushrooms above all other foods, and will search for them in the woods. In the end we may have to acquire a tame deer and see which mushrooms they can stomach. None of our two-legged friends have ever been any help.

News will reprint some of the stories, editorials and columns written by the late Fred Burkhard, former editor/publisher of The Casey County News. Stories may be slightly edited.

Events planned to educate senior citizens on scams, fraud

Kentucky's senior citizens can learn how to protect themselves against fraud, identity theft and scams targeting the elderly at a Senior Crime College program.

Topics included bogus sweepstakes and lotteries, false employment opportunities, phony government stimulus checks, fake debt-relief scams, identity theft, and others. The majority of these scams request personal and financial information in exchange for the promise of money.

The Senior Crime College and Senior Day Out programs use information from actual consumer complaints received by the Attorney General Jack Conway's Office to help educate seniors.

Unsolicited callers request personal information for hospital billing purposes, and healthcare or prescription benefits.

General Conway's office has issued numerous consumer alerts about the "Grandparent's Scam," which targets senior citizens. In this scam, victims receive a phone call from someone claiming to be his/her grandchild, who is in trouble and in need of money. In 2010, a Vine Grove, Ky., grandmother fell victim to this scam, wiring $6,000 to a scam artist in Canada who claimed to be her grandchild.

The closest scheduled senior events include: Aug. 28 — Senior Safety Day, New Hope Church, Hazard; and Sept. 5 — Senior Scam Jam, Capital Plaza Hotel, Frankfort

The Senior Scam Jams are held in partnership with the Department of Financial Institutions, AARP, Postal Inspection Service and Kentucky Department of Insurance.

The Senior Crime College program is also available to individual groups. Groups may request a presentation by calling the Attorney General's Office of Consumer Protection at 502-696-5389 or 1-888-432-9257.

Consumers who suspect they have been a victim of a scam can call the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Hotline at 1-888-432-9257 or visit <http://ag.ky.gov/civil/consumerprotection>.

Blessed is the man who perseveres under trial, because when he has stood the test, he will receive the crown of life that God has promised to those who love him.

Reynolds is new CCHS assistant principal

By Amanda Cole
Staff Writer

Casey County High School started off the 2012-13 school year with a new principal, and now, less than three weeks in, a new assistant principal is joining the staff.

REYNOLDS

Kevin Reynolds of Russell Springs was selected by the Site-Based Council on Aug. 23 to fill the position perviously held by Josh Blevins who became principal on Aug. 3.

"I'm looking forward to the change," said Blevins. "I think we are going to work very well together. The teachers have been very receptive of Mr. Reynolds. We are really excited about it."

Blevins replaced Barry Lee, who accepted a position with the district office as the Director of Special Education.

Reynolds, originally from Richmond, has been teaching physical education and health at Adair County Middle School for the last seven years. Prior to that, he taught special education at Madison Middle School in Richmond. He started out teaching special education in Garrard County.

Reynolds' first day on the job was Monday, but he was eager to come out to the school so he met up with Blevins on Friday after lunch.

"We've hit it off really well," Reynolds said. "We formed a really good working relationship. Mr. Blevins is very fair. In the few scenarios I've seen with him and the students, I can tell they really respect him and that he respects them also."

Reynolds was also impressed by the staff and students.

"The kids are very mannerable and the staff is very welcoming and inviting," he said. "They have bent over backwards to make sure I have an easy and smooth transition."

Reynolds holds two masters degrees from Eastern Kentucky University in special education and educational leadership. He received his bachelor's degree in K-12 physical education teaching from EKVU as well.

Reynolds is enthusiastic about taking the step to assistant principal.

"I'm very excited. I think it's going to be a challenge in the discipline areas and daily running of the school, but I think it's going to be great to work on a one-on-one basis with the students so I can get to know them and be a part of the school and the community too."

Reynolds was among five candidates interviewed for the position.

"The council was very excited to recommend him," said Superintendent Linda Hatter. "He seems like a fine gentleman. I look forward to working with him in the school system."

Reynolds and his wife, Alana, have two children, Tarryn, 8, and Tate, 4.

Local students learn business at conference

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

Two seniors in the Area Technology Center at Casey County High School spent part of their summer learning NICE principles. Not only how to be get along with others but also learning business principles and leadership skills.

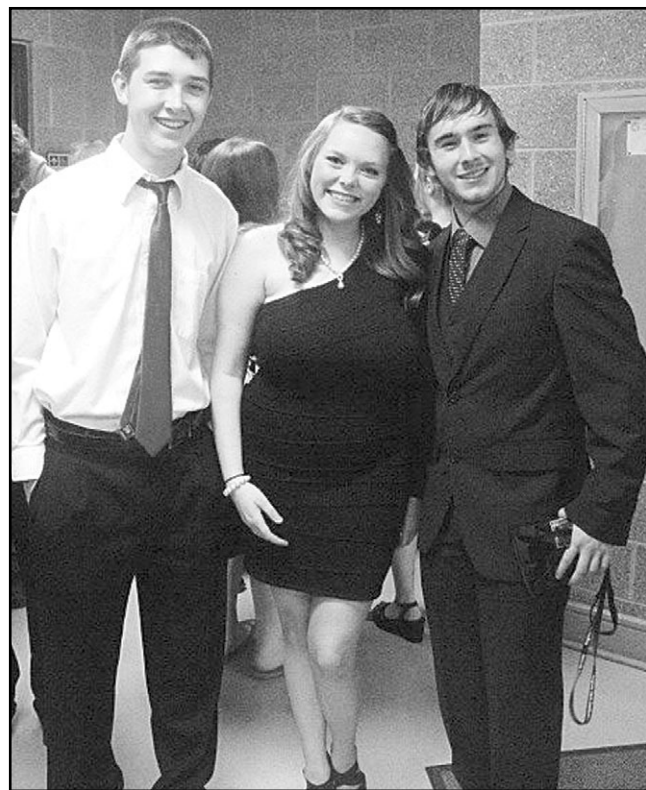

Cody Lewallen and Logan Soule attended the National Institute on Cooperative Education (NICE) conference at Virginia Tech University from July 28 to Aug. 1. The program is promoted through local 4-H programs, the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, and the American Private Enterprise Youth Program.

Lewallen and Soule, 4-H members at CCHS, said the five day conference was fun-filled and very busy.

The pair said they picked up many principles about how co-operative businesses function in a hands-on kind of way.

A cooperative is a business run by its members for its members, and not run for profit, Soule said. The student attendees were assigned to a small group where different business situations were examined.

"We were presented three business problems and had to propose solutions to those problems, even thinking outside of the box," Soule said. "We learned about different co-ops such as Southern States, Sun Kist and Welch's."

In addition, Lewallen said that each small group, with students from across the United States, had to come up with a business model for a co-op.

"We actually had to come up with a business and a product, membership dues and then sell the goods for profit, even balance the expenses to get a profit," Lewallen said. "We could also propose changes dealing with employees, trucks, goods and services, and expenses."

Not only did they study busi-

VolleyRebs win two district games

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent
The VolleyRebs are now 8-2 (2-1) in their season, having picked up three wins last week, including two district wins.

The VolleyRebs hosted Rockcastle Aug. 21 after having just faced them in the Boyle County Invitational Tournament the Saturday before. Casey again dominated play and won 25-11, 25-10, 25-20.

"Right now varsity is pretty steady. They are giving 110 percent every game," said Coach Veronica Sengkhayong. "I told them (Rockcastle) is going to be ready for us (because we just beat them at Boyle) but our girls still overpowered them."

The team turned around to hit the road for another district game, taking on Somerset. Casey breezed over the opponent on Thursday, 25-15, 25-9, playing the best of three games.

Without a day's break, the VolleyRebs hosted and defeated Wayne County on Friday. Wayne is currently 6-3 in the region and 10-4 for their season and ranked just ahead of Casey in the regional standings.

"I didn't tell them until after the game what rank Wayne County was," Sengkhayong said. "They felt really good about themselves after they found out."

The VolleyRebs charged ahead with a lead in both games and never looked back. They won 25-20, 25-21.

"I think Wayne County was a little shocked," said Sengkhayong. "They knew we were doing good but I don't think they realized at first how well we are doing."

Lady Rebel golfers win match against Adair

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Lady Rebel golfers triumphed over another area team last week while also showing solid performances in the Kentucky All-State Invitational Tournament (KIT) hosted by Russell County High School.

vs. Adair County

The team hosted Adair County Aug. 21 for a 210-176 victory.

Laura McQueen played "very consistent" yet again and shot a 39, according to Coach Sarah Christian. Alyx Streeval had the team's second best score at 42.

"This is the first match she's played the game she wanted to (play) and is capable of playing," Christian said on Streeval's game.

Rounding out the scored athletes were Natalie McAninch with 47 and Emilee Vaughn with 48. Catherine McAninch shot 54 while Shelby Salyers shot 58.

KIT

Only two Lady Rebels competed in the KIT at Lakewood Country Club on Tuesday. The 18-hole tournament had players from 23 schools across the state with Henry Clay taking the team championship with a score of 329.

Vaughn and McQueen were Casey's only competitors in the tournament. Vaughn shot 92 and McQueen 97.

"Both played pretty good with the exception of about four holes," Christian said. "I think I've learned what they need to do to improve their chances of shooting well at regional."

vs. Lincoln/Boyle

Casey hosted Lincoln County and the Boyle County JV teams at Hickory Hills Country Club on Monday.

The Lady Rebels came up just short of topping Lincoln, who beat them by only three strokes, 186-183. Boyle's JV shot 210.

McQueen nearly broke the sub-40 barrier when she shot two birdies, but came out an even 40.

"Her dedication and hard work every day this summer is paying off," Christian said.

Natalie had the team's next best score at 46, while Vaughn was just behind her at 47. Salyers shot 53.

"Nat is coming into her game and Shelby is working hard to stay below 55," Christian said.

The team hosted Russell County last night and will travel to Burnside State Park on Thursday to face McCreary and Southwestern Pulaski.

Cross Country has a good unofficial start to season

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The boys and girls cross country team had an unofficial start to their season as they competed in the Bluegrass State Games at Masterson Station Park in Lexington on Aug. 18.

"It was a good day and I think they all really enjoyed it," Coach Amanda Hatter said, adding that Masterson Station's course is where the middle school state event will be held at the end of the season.

The run did not count towards the team's official season, but allowed the runners to break back into competition without as much pressure.

"It wasn't mandatory, but we do it for fun especially so the new kids can run it so it's not so intimidating at the end of the year," Hatter said. "We had at least five new kids and for them it was low key and felt like no pressure."

Sophomore Blake Durham set a personal best in a 5-K race at the meet. He not only Runners participating at the Bluegrass State Games were, front row, from left, Mitchell Duggins, Kip Turner, Zach Morgan. "He ran really well. He was excited," said Hatter.

Kelsey Arthur also brought home a gold medal in the 15-18 division on the women's side of the house. Arthur ran the 5K course in 25:42.

Also earning top finishes included Jonathan Gillock in the boys' 13-14 4K, Abby Meece in the girls' 15-18 3K and Dustin Richards in boys' 13-14 3K.

In the 10 and under divisions, Mitchell Duggins won the boys' 3K while Whitney Clements won the girls' 3K.

The running Rebels regular season was scheduled to kick off last Saturday but the meet was canceled.

The team will have its first official run on Sept. 9 at the E.G. Plummer Invitational in Danville.

Golf team has first win, but focuses on injured player

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Rebel golf team competed in two matches last week, picking up both a win and a loss; however, their focus and attention has adjusted this week with an unfortunate accident for one of the players.

Justin Underwood suffered serious injuries after a four-wheeler accident this weekend. Underwood was taken to the University of Kentucky hospital for extensive surgery and was still there as of Monday.

"He's in a pretty bad situation right now. Instead of practice tonight I'm going to take (the team) up there (to see him)," said Coach Marshall Forbes on Monday.

Meanwhile, Tyler Ammons, who has been out due to injury the last week and a half, was expected to return yesterday.

vs. Russell

Justin Russell was sent to a tie-breaker against Russell County Aug. 21 when the teams tied 184-184 in the regular match play.

The tiebreaker was determined through a one-hole play off between Russell and the number one Laker athlete. Russell's par on the hole bettered his opponent's bogey, giving the Rebels the victory.

"It was very exciting. They were all happy (about the win)," said Forbes. "(Russell) played good. The guys were all really interested in the game and they always are, but this really meant something to them."

Russell shot 45 on the course while Underwood shot 44. Colton Patterson scored 47 with Hayden Bastin tailing by a stroke at 48. J.D. Durham shot 58.

vs. Lincoln

Casey came up short against Lincoln County on Thursday, 192-174.

Russell led the team with a score of 41, with Patterson the only other Rebel to shoot a sub-50 score at 49.

Bastin was a stroke behind Patterson with 50. Eric Livingood shot 52 and Underwood shot 56.

The Rebels took their full team to East Jessamine yesterday for a chance to let their entire roster compete. Then, they are on a short break from play and return Sept. 4.

Waterfowl blind drawing set for Green River Lake

Dates are now set for the waterfowl blind drawings for Green River Lake and Barren River Lake Wildlife Management Areas (WMAs).

The Green River Lake WMA drawing will be Saturday, Sept. 29, at the Green River Lake Corps of Engineers office off Ky. 55, approximately 7 miles south of Campbellsville. Registration is 9 a.m. Eastern time with the drawing at 10 a.m.

Hunters interested in participating in the waterfowl blind drawing must be at least 18 years of age and possess a valid 2012-2013 Kentucky hunting license, a Kentucky waterfowl permit and a federal migratory bird permit (duck stamp) at the time of the drawing.

The Barren River Lake WMA waterfowl blind drawing will be 7-9 a.m. Central time on Saturday, Oct. 6, at the Barren River Lake Corps of Engineers office at Barren River Lake dam, off Ky. 252.

Hunters drawn for blinds are responsible for locating, preparing and maintaining the blind site for the duration of the 2012-2013 waterfowl seasons. Each drawn hunter may select a co-owner of the blind site for use in the absence of the hunter drawn. The co-owner must be present at the drawing.

Hunters may construct a permanent blind or use a boat or portable blind, but each blind site must be permanently pinned with a permanent marker identifying permit holders for the site. Those hunters selected hold first rights for use of the blind site, but these blinds sites open to public use if the selected hunters are not in the blinds by 30 minutes before shooting time.

Casey Rebels lose 46-18 to Taylor County

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

Fumbles and close calls from officiating led to a loss against the Taylor County Cardinal football team last Friday evening, 46-18. The Casey Rebels are now 0-2.

The Rebels moved the ball 305 yards with nine first downs to Taylor’s 480 yards and 16 first downs; however, Taylor did face 81 penalty yards to Casey’s 38.

“We tackled worse today but it’s all about a young team facing adversity,” said Coach Sam Marples. “When we had two or three things that didn’t go our way, we still tried hard, but it’s hard to make those plays that you’d probably make when you were feeling good about yourself.”

The Cardinals got on the scoreboard early when they charged down field on their first possession to go up 6-0.

Casey answered less than a minute later with a 56-yard touchdown run by Alex Bolin. The Rebels’ failed attempt for the two-point conversion left the score tied 6-6.

In their next possession the Rebels took their only lead of the game. Bolin carried the ball four yards into the end zone at 10:55 in the second quarter to make the score 12-6.

Taylor did not allow the Rebel lead to stand long. The Cardinals scored off their next possession with a seven-play drive to make the score 12-12 at 7:56 to play in the quarter.

A series of errors caused back and forth possessions for the teams through the remainder of the half. The Rebels fumbled on the kickoff with Taylor recovering, only to have the Cardinals fumble at the Casey 34 and have the Rebels take back over.

However, Casey was unable to move the ball for a first down in its first series. Taylor took over at the Casey 47 and broke a series of tackles on their first play and ran the entire length to the end zone to reclaim the lead, 18-12.

Casey nearly had a chance to tie the game before half-time when they ran a trick play on fourth and 17 situation with around two minutes to play.

A punt fake resulted in a reception by Forrest Turney that was good enough for the first down around the Taylor 30 yard line; however, it was called back after officials deemed Turney an ineligible receiver and Taylor took possession.

The score was 18-12 at the close of the half.

Rance Carman returned the kickoff to start the second half. Casey began a drive down the field but fumbled in a third and one situation where Taylor recovered at the 50-yard line.

The fumble led to three immediate first downs from the Cardinals as they quickly moved the ball down the field. Casey failed to capitalize on a fumble opportunity and instead Taylor maintained possession and scored three plays later. With the two-point conversion, the Cardinals led 26-12.

Casey moved the ball over the next four minutes, but only saw two first downs and were forced to kick on the fourth down.

Taylor took possession and scored four plays later off a 27-yard run. With 57 seconds left in the quarter, the score was 33-12.

Taylor added seven more points to the board less than 15 seconds into the final quarter. When Casey ran a reverse on the kickoff, Bolin was hit immediately upon taking the hand-off and the ball came loose for a Taylor recovery. Taking over at the Casey 14 allowed the Cardinals to score in four plays, 40-12.

The Rebels scored off of their next possession on a three-minute run that started at the 50-yard line. Bolin ran the ball in for the touchdown from the Taylor 27. An intercepted pass shot their opportunity for a two point conversion and put the score at 40-18.

Taylor scored once more around the six-minute mark to bring the score to 46-18. Casey took one more possession for a chance to decrease the score gap but fumbled. Quarterback Wyatt Bishop went out due to a neck injury around the five-minute mark after being tackled on a carry.

“He got his neck twisted up there at the end,” Marples said. “It may be that he won’t get to practice part of next week, which hurts. When you’re starting quarterback and can’t practice all week it kills what you can do at practice.”

As of Friday night, Marples expected Bishop to be able to play this Friday.

Bolin led rushing yardage with 157 of the 290 total. Bishop was not far behind with 109. Bolin also had the most individual tackles (7), while Jaylan Waddle had a total of 13 individual and assisted tackles.

Casey will hit the road again this weekend when they make the long road trip to face Sheldon Clark in Inez, Ky. on Saturday. Kick off is at 7:30 p.m.

SPORTS TALK

Press box is more like home than the stands

Rita “Peat” HARRIS
Sports Correspondent

I know I could have gotten away with not traveling to Taylor County last Friday to see the Rebel football team play; thanks to assistant coach Darren Summers, I knew I would get a detailed stat report on the game.

But after missing the season opening game at Lincoln due to being out of town, plus knowing that the first home game was still two weeks away, I couldn’t help myself.

This was the first Rebel football game I have been to in a number of years. I’m not even sure I went to more than one the fall after my 2004 graduation. Being there last Friday sure took me back.

You see, I was not the typical spectator through my high school days. My Friday nights were spent high up in the press box glued to every passing second on the field recording the team’s stats. Who got that tackle? What was that penalty? How many yards to go? My job was to capture it all.

When I arrived at Taylor County’s field I took a seat in the stands. Now, I like to think that if I were truly there just for spectating, I would have been satisfied with where I was sitting; however, I barely made it through the first half where I was.

Just as I had a job as statistician eight years ago, I now have a job as a reporter. Sitting between chatty moms, kids playing on the bleachers and highly opinionated fathers did not make for desirable reporting conditions. (Don’t worry, Casey fans, I was amid the Taylor crowd, so maybe that was the true seed of my low tolerance.)

So the second half I invited myself into the press box — somewhere that felt much more like home to me.

Coaches in headsets, other reporters with note pads, video cameras catching the action for review later, colorful radio announcers, statisticians and scoreboard controllers — all in addition to a great view of the field — where else but on the field could be better?

It’s interesting to be back in the same place as I was eight years ago, yet in completely different shoes. Once the spectator and statistician watching Sam Marple suit up in pads and take the field himself, I am now the photographer and reporter, writing about his team of young men as he builds a fine program.

I think no matter if it’s a nerve-racking night with a neck-and-neck score, or if it’s completely one-sided, even with Casey on the losing end, I will love watching Casey County football from the press box. It was there that I went from a girl who thought football was a senseless sport with too much standing around between plays, to the fan who didn’t want to be bothered unless you were helping figure out which five guys were in on that last tackle.

Needless to say, I am looking forward to Sept. 7 at our home field.

Squirrel split season kicks off fall hunting in Kentucky

Kentucky Afield Outdoors

Kentucky’s fall squirrel season, a 193-day split season that kicks off the calendar of fall hunting, opened Saturday, Aug. 18 and will run through Nov. 9. The season re-opens Nov. 12 and closes Feb. 28, 2013.

The daily bag limit is six squirrels.

“Hunters will find plenty of squirrels this season, but populations could be slightly down in some areas,” said Ben Robinson, small game biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. “Last fall’s mast crop was rated good overall, but hickory and white oak production was poor.”

There’s a close relationship between a year’s mast production and the following year’s squirrel population levels.

Since 1953, department biologists have been gauging mast production based on an annual survey of the nuts on hickory, white and red oak and beech trees. The nuts of these trees comprise the most important foods for Kentucky’s forest wildlife – squirrels, white-tailed deer, wild turkeys and bear.

Biologists walk the same route every year and estimate the year’s mast crop based on what they observe.

“This year’s survey began August 15 and will continue for about two weeks,” said Robinson. “After this information is compiled, we’ll have a clearer picture of the impact of the summer drought.”

Weather extremes, such as late frosts and heavy rains in spring or summer droughts, can limit the amount and quality of mast.

Drought conditions in western Kentucky are expected to affect squirrel behavior this fall in the region. “I expect squirrels to be on the move looking for food,” said Robinson.

Late winter is the time when food availability becomes most critical to squirrels and can impact their body condition heading into the breeding season. Hickory nuts begin to mature in August. Acorns and beechnuts mature in September and October.

The 2012-2013 deer season to open with archery Sept. 1

Kentucky Afield Outdoors

When Kentucky’s 2012-2013 deer season opens with the beginning of archery hunting Saturday, Sept. 1, there will be plenty of reasons for hunters to be optimistic.

Last deer season was arguably the state’s best ever. A record 68 bucks taken in Kentucky qualified for entry into the Boone & Crockett record books, a record for the state.

Kentucky hunters also posted the fourth best overall harvest with 119,656 deer, the highest total since the 2008-09 season. In 96 of Kentucky’s 120 counties, hunters bagged more deer than in the 2010-2011 deer season.

Good habitat, aggressive doe harvest and the one-buck limit are thought to be the main reasons why Kentucky has developed a quality deer herd with ample hunting opportunities in all 120 counties.

The trophy deer taken in Kentucky last season included 52 bucks with typical antlers scoring 160 or higher and 16 bucks with non-typical antlers scoring 185 or higher.

The deer came from 44 different Kentucky counties: from Fulton County in the west to Pike County in the east. A decade ago, Kentucky produced just 34 Boone & Crockett record book deer.

Weather, one factor that biologists can’t control, often has a big impact on how many deer are available to hunters and how many are harvested.

It’s too early to fully assess the impact of this summer’s drought, which has affected about two-thirds of the state.

Drought conditions may have compromised mast production and the availability of green forage in some areas.

The Aug. 14 Drought

Monitor issued by the National Weather Service categorized the Jackson Purchase Region of Kentucky and parts of 18 counties directly to the east of that region in exceptional or extreme drought.

Central Kentucky counties range from moderate drought to abnormally dry, but parts of more than 35 southern and eastern Kentucky counties have received normal rainfall levels.

If the dry conditions persist in western Kentucky, it could impact the deer harvest there. Poor mast crop compounded by corn and soybean fields shriveled up would put deer on the move looking for food. That could mean harvest totals will be higher than usual.

In parts of central and eastern Kentucky that have received near-normal rainfall levels, landowners are encouraged to continue pre-season mowing of their hunting areas. August is a good time to cut back the dead grass, to stimulate regrowth.

Clover, a cool season legume, is an important food source for deer until heavy frosts come in late October. There’s plenty of time left for rains to benefit clover fields.

Pre-season mowing should also include cutting trails and wildlife openings.

Kentucky’s deer herd is now estimated to number about 850,000, down from one million in 2003.

The herd is now stable, which means it is a robust herd that can withstand drought and other big changes in weather and food availability.

Although yellow or brown grass covers much of Kentucky, hunters should have many deer available to them when they hit the woods this fall.

Savvy Senior

Ask A Senior Question Get A Savvy Answer

Simplified computer software that can help seniors get online

Dear Savvy Senior,
Do you know of any computer software that's designed for seniors that I can download on an old computer that I have? I would like to set my grandmother up with a senior-friendly system for email and Internet access, but I don't want to spend a lot of money.

Cheap and Simple

Dear Cheap,
There are actually a number of companies and services today that offer simplified computer software that's designed specifically for seniors who have little or no computer experience.

These software packages can transform most Microsoft Windows personal computers (PCs) – some work with Macs and tablets too – into a much simpler computer experience that provides seniors easy access to most functions like sending and receiving email, browsing the Internet, making video calls, looking at photos, playing games and more. Here are some top options to check out.

Free Software

Since it's completely free, a good place to start is at Eldy, an Italian nonprofit organization that provides simplified computer software in 25 different languages including English. Available to download at www.eldy.eu, this software works on PCs that use Windows and Linux systems, Macs and Android tablets.

Once installed, Eldy converts the computer's desktop into a simple six-button menu that has large text, color contrasts and simplified instructions (no confusing icons) that makes it easy to see, understand and operate.

The six-button menu puts seniors literally one-click-of-the-mouse away from simplified versions of email, the Web, Skype for video calls, chat groups, a simple word processing program and more.

It's also worth noting that Eldy software works on touch-screen computers too, and they also offer online tech-support.

Fee-Based Services

If, however, you don't mind spending a little money, there are also a number of companies that offer software similar to Eldy, but provide a few extra enticing features. One of the best deals is offered through SeeYouLink (seeyoulink.com).

SeeYouLink's web-based software will transform any mouse-operated or touch-screen Windows-based PC, into a simplified big-button operating system with large fonts and color contrasts. This will give your grandmother easy access to a host of functions that she can select from like email, Web browsing, video calling, brain-fitness games, movies, Facebook, a calendar that sends reminders and much more.

In addition, this service also provides a "remote access" feature that will give you and other family members the ability to access your grandmother's computer system from literally any computer anywhere in the world, so you can help her set things up, show her websites, scheduled appointments, or guide her through any other questions or problems she might have. And, when you or your grandmother needs help, SeeYouLink offers free tech-support both online and over the phone.

In addition to SeeYouLink, some other companies worth a look that offer similar services include InTouchLink (intouchlink.com), which can be used on a PC, Mac or iPad, PointerWare (pointerware.com), which works on Windows PCs, and BigScreenLive, that operates on Windows PCs.

Senior-Friendly Computers

If you find that you would rather purchase your grandmother a new computer that's designed for seniors and is ready to go right out of the box, you have options here too.

Two of the most popular are the Telikin (telikin.com, 800-230-3881) and MyGait (mygait.com, 866-469-4248).

Beshear overhauls career and technical education in Kentucky

Kentucky Press News Service

In a move to help produce the skilled workforce businesses require today and in the future, Gov. Steve Beshear Tuesday signed an executive order that will overhaul the state's career and technical education system.

The order unites the state's two career and technical education - or CTE - systems under the guidance of Kentucky's Department of Education. The goal is to create a unified, more relevant and efficient system to educate and prepare students for the world of work in a real-life setting, according to a news release from Beshear's office.

"It is our responsibility to prepare students for higher education as well as for the workplace," Beshear said in the news release. "Today's employers require a workforce that is skilled, adaptable and equipped to compete in the global marketplace. Our students need an education system that provides job-training and learning opportunities that will put them on a career pathway. Transforming and elevating CTE is essential to this process. We must create a career and technical education system that is a first choice, not a last chance."

The executive order is part of a larger effort to prepare students for a wider range of career options through high-quality CTE programs. Educators, businesses and administrators across the state are working together to make these programs more accessible earlier, more academically rigorous and better aligned with postsecondary requirements and employer needs, the release said.

For example, the Kentucky Board of Education has adopted a college and career readiness measure that includes an academic component and a technical skill component. The Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) offers dual credit opportunities so that high school students can earn college credit. Kentucky provides funds from the Carl D. Perkins CTE Basic Grant to encourage secondary and postsecondary institutions to develop innovative career pathways.

In addition, the Governor's Task Force on Transforming Education in Kentucky and the Graduate Kentucky steering committee, led by first lady Jane Beshear, have both made recommendations to improve career and technical education opportunities and reinforce its role as a critical component of Kentucky's college and career readiness initiative.

"CTE can make the direct connection for students between education and jobs," Education and Workforce Development Cabinet Secretary Joseph U. Meyer said. "These programs offer learning opportunities that can inspire all students to explore careers and tackle more challenging courses."

Studies show that graduation rates are higher among students who participate in CTE programs as opposed to those who do not. These high school graduates are then more likely to transition to postsecondary education or employment.

Seventy-five percent of Kentucky high school students, more than 150,000 pupils, were enrolled in career and technical education programs last year. Career and technical education – offering hands-on training in areas such as agriscience, machine tool technology, health sciences, electrical technology and business administration – is provided at 323 middle and high schools, area technology centers and career and technical centers across the state, the news release said.

"Bringing the Office of Career and Technical Education into the Kentucky Department of Education is an excellent move," Kentucky Education Commissioner Terry Holliday said. "Career and technical education directly connects learning and jobs for our students and provides them with engaging real-world opportunities so that they can transition to higher education or employment with ease. This move is a key strategy in our efforts to ensure college and career readiness for all students."

The executive order also establishes a CTE Advisory Committee that will provide guidance in the design and implementation of programs that give all students the best possible opportunity for career preparation in a unified system.

The signing ceremony was held at Lexington's newest career and technical high school, Locust Trace Agriscience Farm. In addition to classrooms with adjoining labs, the facility features 6.5 acres for gardening, a state-of-the-art greenhouse and aquaculture area, an auditorium to accommodate livestock and machinery, an equine barn and arena and an on-site veterinary clinic. The school offers courses in plant and land science, biotechnology and environmental science, agriculture power mechanics, equine and vet science, and small and large animal science.

Tree

But back to the trees of Casey County. I was able to make it out to one of the tree locations this past week. I went with Greg Lawhorn and his son Andy to Greg's home on Bryant Ridge Road to see a "humongous" white oak tree in his backyard.

In an attempt to pull my leg, Greg and Andy had agreed to tell me a wild tale that connected the commanding officer listed on the plaque at the courthouse to the tree, but when I started taking notes they looked at each other and said, "We better not."

With a smile, Greg patted me on the back and told me they were kidding. The tree, however, did live up to the hype I had heard over the phone. It was humongous.

Greg and Andy got out a measuring tape and measured the tree from about 3 feet off of the ground. The tree was 188 inches around, which put the diameter at about 4 feet 9 inches.

As we walked around the massive white oak, Andy pointed out a round blade pan also known as a "stump jumper" from a bush hog he had wedged into the tree as a teenager to use for target practice.

The metal piece is now about 75 percent embedded in the tree's trunk, unable to be budged. About a third of the way up, there is a chain wrapped around the tree.

Greg explained that he had put it there about 12-15 years ago when lightning struck the tree and almost split it in two on one side.

Greg said he has thought about cutting it down but never will. He actually built his house around the tree. Andy remembers his dad measuring out where the tree would fall to determine where to safely place the house.

I'd like to say thank you the Lawhorns, and all of those who contacted me. I've got quite a few trees to check out still, so please be patient. As soon as I can, I'll be heading out to look at a state-record buckeye tree, another white oak, a pecan tree and more.
